GOV. GOEBEL'S DEATH.

It Took Place While Only His Brother and Sister Were By His Bedside.

MR. BECKHAM SWORN IN AS GOVERNOR

An Armed Conflict Averted By the Release of Alonzo Walker By Gov. Taylor.

The Republicans and Democrats Come to an Amicable Agreement on the Gubernatorial Contest.

The Troops Are to be Withdrawn, and the Legislature Allowed to Meet in Frankfort.

Beckham's Title to the Governorship Is Not to Be Disputed—No Summary Action to Be Taken on Election Contests.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 5.—William Goebel died Saturday evening at 6:44. His last words spoken were addressed to Dr. Furnish, state senator from Boone county, at 5:45. He called him by name and asked to be given a drink of water. At 6 he nodded assent when the physicians asked if he would attempt to take liquid nourishment. Soon thereafter he fell into complete unconsciousness and so remained until the end.

At 6:30, when it was apparent that the end was near, the physicians left the room. Only the brother and the sister of the dying man, Arthur Goebel and Mrs. Brynnecker, entered the room and were the only ones present when the death summons came.

Justus Goebel, a brother of the dead statesman, with his wife and two children, who had been traveling night and day for four days as fast as steam would carry him from Phoenix, Ariz., arrived one hour too late in his race against death.

Gov. Goebel's death was not made public for some time after it had occurred. In the meantime messengers summoned democratic leaders quietly to the room of Senator Blackburn on the same floor of the hotel. Arrangements were soon made for transferring the office and authority of governor to Lieut. Gov. Beckham.

Dr. McCormack was present and Mr. Shackelford in his notarial capacity as clerk of the court of appeals, swore Dr. McCormack's signature to the affidavit of death.

Gov. Beckham then took the oath of office. After he signed it and affirmed the oath he said: "And may God help me to meet this responsibility."

"We all trust that he will," said Col. Young, and there was a murmur of "Amen."

It was in subdued and solemn tones that Gov. Beckham received the congratulations of those who witnessed his induction into office.

Immediately after Gov. Beckham had been sworn in the news of Gov. Goebel's death was made public. The effect was a general demonstration of grief, such as Frankfort had never seen.

Although the burial will take place in Frankfort, in accordance with the wishes of the friends of the dead man, the funeral services will be held in Covington, his home. The remains will be taken to Covington on a special train. The train will consist of three cars, one car for the casket and the actual pallbearers. A private car will be furnished for the relatives of the dead man, while a sleeper will be furnished for the members of the legislative committee, which has not yet been selected, judges of the court of appeals and other political friends.

Tuesday morning the remains will be conveyed to Odd Fellows' hall, in Covington, and from 8:30 in the morning until 10 o'clock in the evening will lie in state, the hall being kept open in the evening to allow the working people an opportunity to review the remains.

The funeral services will be extremely simple, in deference not only to the wishes of Mr. Goebel, but also to the members of his family. There will be a guard of honor in Covington selected by Arthur and Justus Goebel, consisting of 50 citizens, but outside of this there will be no ceremony or display of any kind. Even the funeral cortege will be lacking.

Wednesday morning the remains will be brought back to Frankfort, and placed in the big hall room of the Capitol hotel, where they will lie in state all that day. Some apprehension is felt of trouble on that day, as it is believed from 30,000 to 50,000 strangers will be in the city to view the remains of the democratic leader, and bitter feeling engendered by his death may result in a clash. Precautions are being taken irrespective of party, to prevent trouble, and no serious outbreak is looked for.

The interment will take place Thursday from the Capitol hotel, but the actual arrangements for the burial have as yet not been decided on. The remains will be buried in the cemetery overlooking the Kentucky river, where lie the remains of Daniel Boone, Vice President Richard Johnson and several Kentucky governors, eminent jurists and soldiers.

Already a movement has been started to erect a fitting monument for Mr. Goebel's memory on the spot in the state house grounds where he was shot.

An Autopsy Held.
Frankfort, Feb. 6.—An autopsy was held on the body of Gov. Goebel Monday morning conducted by Drs. Lunne, Williams and Tobin. Col. Jack Chilton told graphically and specifically the position Goebel was in when he fell. The important fact brought out was that the exact angle taken by the bullet was demonstrated beyond a question of doubt. Goebel had his right foot forward and his right shoulder and arm thrown back and lowered somewhat.

It was while in this position that he was shot, and the angle thus ascertained established the height from the ground from which the assassin fired his shot. On the strength of these conclusions the democratic leaders are asserting that a straight line, extended from the spot where the shooting occurred, would exactly reach the attic window of the executive building, from which it is alleged the fatal shot was fired.

This week a man will be placed in the exact position in which Goebel was when he was shot and measurements taken. The doctors found that the bullet pierced the lower portion of the right lung, causing immediate suspension of digestion and paralyzing the kidneys.

Gov. Taylor Adjourns Legislature.
Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 1.—Never was there a more complicated political situation than that which confronts the politicians of Kentucky, and never was there one of which it seemed so difficult to form an accurate guess at the outcome.

Gov. Taylor issued a proclamation declaring that a state of insurrection existed in Kentucky, and particularly in the city of Frankfort, and because of this he adjourned the legislature, to meet at London, Laurel county, on February 6.

Goebel Sworn In.
Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 1.—William Goebel was shortly before 9 o'clock last night sworn in as governor of Kentucky, and J. C. W. Beckham a few minutes later took the oath of lieutenant governor. The oath was administered to both men by Chief Justice Hazlerigg, of the court of appeals.

Mr. Goebel was propped up with pillows and was unable to raise his hand only with the greatest difficulty as he listened to the words of Judge Hazlerigg. When the oath had been given Mr. Goebel sank back exhausted, the effort having been almost too much for his strength.

Immediately upon leaving the room where he had sworn in Mr. Goebel, Judge Hazlerigg went to an adjoining room where he swore in Mr. Beckham as lieutenant governor. This done he returned to his home.

Gov. Taylor Defied.
Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 2.—Two direct slaps were given Gov. Taylor by public officers who declined to obey his orders. The first came from President Rodman, of the Farmers' bank, which is a state depository. Some vouchers on the bank were signed by Gov. Taylor in favor of some of the militia officers who wanted money for their companies. When they were presented at the bank payment was refused. President Rodman said that he did not see how he could pay out the money on orders signed by Gov. Taylor until he knew for certain who was the actual governor of Kentucky.

He had asked an opinion from the attorney of the bank, he said, and when it was received would act accordingly. He declared that he would take no chance of paying out money until he was satisfied that he was acting under proper authority.

The second instance was when Gov. Taylor issued a pardon to Douglas Hayes, a convict in the Frankfort penitentiary who is serving a five-year term for manslaughter, having been sentenced in March, 1899. When the pardon was sent to Warden Lillard he decided that he could not turn the man loose until he was satisfied regarding the legal status of the governorship. He made no reply to Gov. Taylor, but declined to honor the pardon, and informed the penitentiary commissioners of his action.

Conflict of Authority.
Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 3.—The first clash between the executive and judiciary powers of the state has occurred, and a still greater clash is imminent, and beyond lies a sea with skies so lowering, and so stormy an aspect that no politician of either party can predict where it will carry the Kentucky ship of state. There is the chance that things will, as Congressman June Gayle expresses it, "drift around all right," but there are other chances also, and if things are to "strike around all right" they must strike a counter current and strike it soon.

The first clash came when Alonzo Walker, a stenographer employed by the democratic attorneys was placed under arrest in the capital grounds charged with conduct tending to incite mutiny and riot. The conduct consisted in pinning to the door of the private office of Gov. Taylor a notice that the democratic attorneys would appear before Judge Cantrill, of the circuit court, and ask for an injunction restraining Gov. Taylor from all interference with the movements of the legislature and from his announced attempt to remove it to London in this state. Walker was at once taken into custody by orders of Col. Roger Williams, the commanding officer of the force now gathered around the capital.

Injunction Against Taylor.
Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 4.—Judge Cantrill, of the circuit court, Saturday morning granted a temporary injunction restraining Gov. Taylor from interfering with the meetings of the legislature, and from removing the seat of the legislature to London, Ky. The temporary injunction is to remain binding until February 8, when the hearing to make it permanent will be heard before Judge Cantrill at Georgetown, Ky.

Immediately after the issuance of the writ, Judge Cantrill instructed Sheriff Suter, of Franklin county, to make no effort to present the order of court.

Taylor Offers a Reward.
Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 3.—Gov. Taylor has personally offered a reward of $500 for the arrest and conviction of the man who shot Gov. Goebel. In making the offer of the reward Gov. Taylor states that the authorities of Franklin county, in which the crime was committed, have never requested him to officially offer a reward, and he therefore offers $500 as an individual.

Taylor Appeals to McKinley.
Washington, Feb. 2.—Gov. Taylor has sent a communication to President McKinley which is in its nature a memorial. It goes at great length into the situation in Kentucky, making an explanation of the condition there.

No Federal Interference.
Washington, Feb. 3.—A Kentucky delegation consisting of Senator-elect Blackburn, Representatives Ithen, Smith, Allen and Gilbert, and ex-Representative Thompson, called on President McKinley Friday to protest against any federal interference in that state. Senator Lindsay was also there, but did not come with the other gentlemen.

The Kentuckians said that federal interference in Kentucky would be sure to result in serious trouble, as the first movement of troops would cause an uprising that could not be easily quelled. They expressed the opinion that the difficulties would be adjusted without further violence if the people of Kentucky were allowed to settle the matter themselves.

After leaving the white house Sen. Washington, Feb. 3.—At the cabinet meeting Friday it was decided that the situation in Kentucky is not such as to require federal interference, and consequently the president will take no action under the present conditions.

A Conflict Averted.
Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 5.—Armed conflict between the civil authorities of Franklin county and national guard of the state of Kentucky has been averted, and, unless new causes should come to the front, there is small likelihood that the political situation will again become as threatening as it has been during the last 48 hours.

Gov. Taylor Sunday morning ordered the release of Alonzo Walker, for the possession of whom Judge Moore had declared that Sheriff Suter would swear in a posse and take possession of the capital grounds, if such an extreme became necessary. While not recognizing in his action the existence of the writ of habeas corpus which had been sworn out on behalf of Walker, Gov. Taylor by releasing the man removed the most threatening sign of trouble. The commanding officers of the troops which guard the capital grounds are careful to say that the situation is entirely a military affair, and that they extend the writ of habeas corpus very little consideration; but, whether they regard it or not, Walker is free, and Sheriff Suter will not be called upon to summon force in the attempt to secure his release.

Peace in Sight.
Louisville, Ky., Feb. 6.—A conference between accredited representatives of the two state governments was held at the Galt house in this city as a step toward bringing about a peaceful settlement of the disturbed political conditions now existing. After many hours of deliberation an agreement was reached, which, if carried out, the strife which rent Kentucky from end to end for the past few weeks will be ended. The agreement was reached shortly after midnight and arrangements were immediately made to have it drawn up and signed. This was slow work, however, and it was after 2 o'clock when the conferees separated. The democrats gained nearly every point they contended for and the republican representatives, Lieut. Gov. John Marshall, Gen. Dan Lindsey and Attorney David Fairleigh gave assurances that the agreement would be accepted by Gov. Taylor.

The agreement provides that in order to leave no question as to the title of Wm. Goebel and J. C. W. Beckham to the offices of governor and lieutenant governor respectively, the general assembly shall pass a resolution in joint assembly validating the acts on that subject, since the legislature has been prevented from holding its regular session at Frankfort. As soon as the legislature does the same, Beckham's title to the office of governor is not to be questioned.

Immunity to Be Granted Taylor.
The democrats grant immunity to Gov. Taylor and his associates from prosecution for treason, usurpation of office or of contempt of court for which it has been done since the shooting of Goebel. These matters are to be held in abeyance until next Monday. The republican legislature is to be withdrawn from London immediately and no filibustering or other attempts of this character is to be resorted to by the republicans to obstruct the carrying out of this agreement in the legislature.

The democrats suggested in the favor of the great crowds in Frankfort during the Goebel funeral ceremonies the soldiers should be withdrawn. The republicans asked that an adequate guard be left to protect Gov. Taylor and his associates.

It was finally agreed to leave to Gen. Daniel Lindsey, one of the republican conferees, the decision as to how many troops should be left to prevent a clash as a result of the Goebel funeral, the republicans to begin at once the withdrawal of troops from Frankfort.

It was agreed that the board of election commissioners sitting as a contest board should be allowed to meet at Frankfort without molestation, the democrats agreeing that no summary action be taken on these contests and that nothing be done without due hearing of evidence and argument.

The Goebel Election Law.
The republicans asked that some provision for a repeal, or modification of the Goebel election law be included in the agreement. The democrats agreed that two leading republicans and two leading democrats should be left the matter of suggesting changes in the Goebel law, believed to be wise.

The acceptance of this agreement by the principals is the only element of uncertainty now remaining in the situation. Naturally there is no objection from the democrats and the attitude of Gov. Taylor will certainly be known within a few hours.

How accurately the republican conferees represent Gov. Taylor, or how nearly the latter's acquiescence is necessary to the carrying out of the plans agreed upon, can only be determined by the events of the next 24 hours.

Passed Through the Lines.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 6.—Gov. Taylor made a distinct and positive offer to submit the merits of his claim to the gubernatorial chair of Kentucky to any three fair-minded men in the world, these three men to be selected by the United States supreme court. He will allow them to arbitrate the case, and will abide by their decision. This announcement he made to a correspondent in his office in the executive building. The declaration was at once wired by the correspondent to Lieut. Gov. John Marshall and Attorney David W. Fairleigh, republican members of the political conference held at Louisville.

The rule that no civilians should be allowed to enter the capital building, which has prevailed since the legislature was compelled to leave it one week ago, was relaxed in favor of the state board of election commissioners. They were permitted to enter their office in the capital for the purpose of attending to some routine work relative to the contests made by the democratic candidates for minor places on the state ticket at the Goebel-Taylor election. They were kept waiting for an hour at the south gate of the capital grounds before they were admitted, however. The lawyers were stopped at the gate. The commissioners went to their office in the building and remained only for a few minutes, as they were unable to attend to their work there without the assistance of the attorneys. No action was taken in any of the contests.

Although every leader of the democratic party is now away from Frankfort, it is understood and believed by such of those who remain here that the democratic party, in case of a failure to agree with the republicans in Louisville, will at once proceed to organize a state government. In order to do this with the least possible delay, it is necessary that the contests for the minor positions on the state ticket shall be determined immediately. Gov. Beckham has at the present time no secretary of state, no treasurer and no auditor. It will be impossible, of course, for him to transact state business until these officers have been seated, and it is with the object of facilitating matters in this respect that the election commissioners are now at work. All these contests are little more than matters of form, every one of them resting upon the same evidence which caused the legislature to decide the Goebel-Taylor contest in favor of the former.

WILLIAM E. GOEBEL

GOEBEL'S DEAD.

"Tell My Friends To Be Brave & Fearless and Loyal To the Great Common People"

Were His Dying Words
And His Legacy To the Loyal and True.

WHERE IN KENTUCKY

Shall We Find His Like
Again? Who Shall Take Up His Cause With Courage, Ability and Zeal?

Saturday night the sad and heart-rending message came that Gov. Goebel was dead, and Sunday morning's paper confirmed the report in bold head lines. The dailies brought the dreadful news to many a home throughout Kentucky, which made the Sabbath as heavy-hearted as the day was rainy and disagreeable on the outside. The Governor grew worse, rapidly, Saturday afternoon from 2:30 o'clock until his death—most of the time being unconscious. It was a sad scene around his death-bed and out in the long hall and down in the corridor of the big Capitol Hotel, strong men ground in mournful agony, grave and dignified Senators, judges, lawyers, doctors and preachers bowed their heads and tears trickled down their manly cheeks, and noble women wept like children. If some of our church-going-law-abiding-health-restoring citizens who have anxiously and boastfully wished for his death, could have witnessed the scene, their partisan hatred would have melted into a patriotic admiration for the dying man.

Boys, William Goebel is dead and he was slain by an assassin bullet, but there is one sweet and cheering consolation given in this dark hour of gloom, that he is not altogether lost to us. His instructions will be heeded; his advice will be granted and his expressions and thoughts will form parts of our discussions and debates. His legislation will be frequent reminders of his genius, of his wisdom and judgment; of his interest in and feeling for the common people.

In youth his trials were many; his early manhood was filled with struggles against besetting obstacles and in his latter days, slander, lies of the most vicious kind and malignant misrepresentations were heaped upon him. Not satisfied with this, they planned to take his life, and that by the cowardly hand of an assassin concealed in Gov. Taylor's building. It is terrible, yes, horrible, to think that a man who goes into court to get his legal rights, must be shot down and killed when on his way to perform those duties to which the people had elected him, without a moments warning of the assassin; without a chance to meet and combat his would-be slayer. On his way to the Senate chamber where it was his sworn duty to go and then to be stopped so unexpectedly and so suddenly by that murderous bullet that plowed its way through his body and felled him to the pavement, make his death all the more sad and unfortunate.

Truly, these are trying times. But we implore and beg of you, each and all to keep cool. Say nothing that will wound any one's feelings. Do not discuss the subject with rank and rabid partisans. Give no insult. It will not bring Senator Goebel back, and were he alive this day, he would say now, as he said just after he was shot:—"Do no act of violence." Fear not, fellow citizens; the law will be vindicated and justice will finally prevail.

(From Monday's Courier-Journal.)

He lies dead at Frankfort. He can never again speak for himself. We take leave to speak for him, but in his behalf; in defense of the good name which he wished to leave behind him now dear only to the bereaved ones of his own family, though honored by his political associates; for he lived a lonely, isolated life; was cheek-by-jowl with no one; a simple student who aspired to be a leader and a statesman. He was ambitious. The eulogist of Caesar called it a grievous fault, and grievously has William Goebel answered it. But there are kinds and degrees of ambition. He wished to do the State some service. He thought the best way to attain this end was to represent the interest of the great body of the people against the growing aggressions of the chartered companies. It cost him his life. He has paid the debt. He is gone.

But, being a student, sustained by the rectitude of his convictions along with the knowledge of his researches, he set himself against the aggressions of the chartered companies like a statesman, not like an empirist. He did not seek whimsically or corruptly to oppose them; but, rather, to moderate their excess, to restrain them within the bounds of their chartered rights. To accomplish a task so needful and difficult required not merely legal learning and acumen, but personal courage of the first order; because in the capitals of all our States there are lobbies, which when the artifices of corruption fail, know how to handle the appliances of intimidation; in the older States the machinery is blackmail; in the newer, the menace of personal danger. Mr. Goebel feared none of these. He went his way, disdaining them. He did his work in their despite. Because of this he became a leader, and the only leader in Kentucky whom corruption and corruptionists seriously feared. They could not buy him and they could not bully him. They had to cause him to be killed; and, like the blowing up of the Maine in Havana harbor, his death will be the signal for such just retribution to them as came to Spain. It throws a flash-light upon the whole subject of the relation of the public corporations to the people. It is a signal to honest and patriotic men of all parties to unite against the growing danger of monopoly.

If William Goebel had survived these tragical times nothing could have stood in the way of his going to the head of the people's column for physical and moral emancipation from the brute power of money. His death unites the Democrats of the United States. All of us, from Maine to Texas, from New York to California, will dip our handkerchiefs in his blood, sworn to fight the fight out on that line if it takes the whole of the coming century. That is all that we can do for him now; but, standing over the grave of this brave and pure young spirit—malignant beyond recall, hounded to that grave by men who knew better this we can pledge ourselves to do. The grief of Goebel's taking off is domestic. The issue is national.

William Goebel was not a man to attract the public. He was not a man to convulse an audience or to set the table in a roar. But his brothers and sisters loved him; and he was so good a son that, after his mother's death, he kept her membership of her church alive and paid for her pew, as if she herself had still been living. He had the misfortune to be born of poor, German parentage. Before he was five and twenty, he was the law partner of the late Gov. Stephenson, the very Ultima Thule of the patricianism of Virginia and Kentucky; who dying, left him his great estate to manage without a bond; and, later, the law partner of John G. Carlisle who did little credit to himself and his real friends in Kentucky, when, during the late campaign, he permitted himself to be quoted even seemingly against Mr. Goebel, for Mr. Carlisle knows, and so does the Editor of the Courier-Journal, that in 1896 Mr. Goebel did Mr. Carlisle no wrong whatever.

The killing of Mr. Sanford by Mr. Goebel is the pivotal point upon which Mr. Goebel's character has been arraigned. It was a street duel. Mr. Sanford was a dead shot. But, when the bullets passed, Goebel's bullet hit and Sanford's bullet missed. It was so clear a case of self-defense that in a city where Sanford had ten devoted friends to Goebel's one, nobody seriously thought of indicting Goebel.

In the convention that nominated Mr. Goebel for Governor the Louisville and Nashville Railroad was the main factor. After a week of battle, day and night, Mr. Goebel beat the combination of brute force and money, and won the nomination; doing nothing to his competitors—whatever he did to them that they were not ready to do to him. Every man, woman and child in Kentucky knows this to be the truth.

COMMENTS.

(Detroit Tribune, Rep.)
A great many excuses have been made for the political crime that Gov. Taylor has committed in Kentucky; but no partisan has yet been able to justify it. It may be said that Mr. Goebel was trying to obtain the Governorship by fraud, and that a blindly partisan Legislature was assisting him in the perpetration of this outrage; but whatever Mr. Goebel did was done within the sanction of the law.

A COLD COMFORT.
[St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Dem.]
Mr. McKinley gives cold comfort to the Kentucky Republicans who are trying to substitute to force for law.

Surrender Taylor's only course.
(Chicago Post Rep.)
There is at present nothing whatever for the Federal Government to do. There is no possible justification for the arbitrary order of Taylor in adjourning Legislature. The sooner Taylor surrenders and gives the courts an opportunity the better for his own and party's prospects in Kentucky.

[Chicago Journal, Rep.]
Would Gov. Taylor, of Kentucky, have appealed to a Democratic president for support?

DID THE RIGHT THING.
(Pittsburg Commercial-Gazette) (Republican.)

President McKinley wisely refrains from Federal interference, which would be far more likely to do harm than good just now. Kentucky must be given every chance to work out her own salvation. The government can assist her only when Kentuckians confess themselves unable to maintain the Republican form of government which the Constitution guarantees to each State. May their proud natures never be forced to the humiliation of such an acknowledgment.

Taylor Should Come Off the Perch
(St. Paul Pioneer Press, Rep.)

The position he has taken since the dastardly shooting of Goebel is not legally defensible. His acts since that event have been defiance of the fundamental principles of republican government, of the Constitution of Kentucky and of the law governing its elections.

TAYLOR AN ANARCHIST.
[Pittsburg Press, Independent.]

Practically; no matter if his majority was originally 100,000, he has become an anarchist, defying courts as well as Legislatures.

(Newark Advertiser, Ind.)
The Legislature was adjourned to prevent it from sitting as a Court of Appeals, and legally ousting Taylor, and the latter, taking advantage of an atrocious crime, perpetrated from his own official residence by his own partisans, and under his eyes, acted throughout in his own interest. But surely he must see that, in the eyes of the American people, he, the beneficiary of the crime and the gatherer of fruits, will not be held guiltless of that crime when he refuses to take a step to secure the assassin, and denies opportunity to the criminal authorities for that purpose.

A MOONSHINE GOVERNMENT
[Sioux Falls Press, Dem.]

No wonder Taylor decided upon removing the capital to this moonshine district. Decent men will not dare go there. It purely a moonshine government the Republicans are maintaining.

A DISGRACE.
[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

Taylor's conduct, stopping, as it does, the entire machinery of government, might pass unnoticed in a South American Republic, where revolution is the American Union it is a disgrace.

ASSASSIN PROTECTED.
[Pittsburg Post, Dem.]

The case is made out that Taylor protected the assassin from arrest.

THE WORST OF THE TWO.
[New York World, Dem.]

As between a Kentucky return-ind board and a Kentucky dictator the sentiment the country is against the dictator.

WITHOUT WARRANT.
(Rochester Herald, Anti-Goebel.)

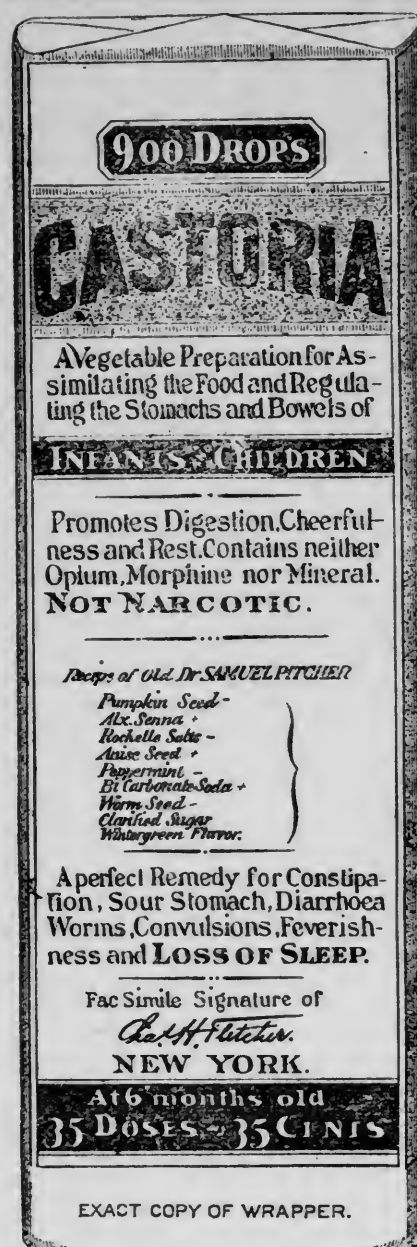

The acts of Taylor, the de facto Governor, in adjourning the Legislature and in assembling State troops to prevent the return of the Legislators to the Statehouse were apparently without warrant in the Constitution of Kentucky.

"Sweet Bells Jangled
Out of Tune and Harsh."

Shakespeare's description fits thousands of women. They are cross, irascible, nervous—a burden to themselves and their families. Their sweet dispositions are gone, and they lay the bells, seem sadly out of tune. But there is a remedy. They can use

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

It brings health to the womanly organism, and health there means well-poised nerves, calmness, strength. It restores womanly vigor and power. It tones up the nerves which suffering and disease have shattered. It is the most perfect remedy ever devised to restore weak women to perfect health, and to make them attractive and happy. $1.00 at all druggists. For advice in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, "The Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.
REV. J. W. SMITH, Camden, S. C., says:—"My wife used Wine of Cardui at home for falling of the womb and it entirely cured her."

Don't forget the oyster supper which the band boys will give at the Miller House Tuesday night.

R. L. McFeron has bought the Walk Newcomb property, where he has been doing business for several years.

Born to the wife of Ashley Owens on February 6th, a girl—weight, 12 pounds and a-half.

Ashley Owens, Jr., the apostle of free silver, will, in the near future move his family to the Big Glades.

Read the ad of W. A. Carson, who is recognized as being one of the best painters and paper hangers in eastern Ky.

J. H. Fish, of Edgeville, Tenn., after a pleasant stay of one week with relatives here, returned to his home Tuesday.

J. R. Baugh, who used to live in Scaffold Cane, but now at McKinney, is talking of locating here, in the near future.

E. B. Miller, who was one of Goebel's heartiest supporters and greatest admirers, is in Lancaster this week on business.

Miss McClure mother of Judge G. M. McClure is very low, from a stroke of paralysis. There is but little hope of her recovery.

Miss Ida May Adams wrote a very strong and appreciative letter to the editor of the Interior Journal congratulating him on his Friday edition of the Interior Journal.

For fire, life and accident insurance, call at the SIGNAL office. E. S. ALBRIGHT, Agent.

'Squire J. N. Brown, of Level Green, was in to see us Saturday and reported everything in his part to be moving along nicely.

On last Saturday night some one took from James M. Crawford's stable a fine bay horse. No clue as to the guilty party has as yet been obtained.

Judge J. W. Alcorn was joined here Wednesday by Judge G. W. McClure and John W. Brown and all went to Livingston, on legal business.

Marion Gad, son of Armp Gad, dropped dead Sunday while coughing. Supposed to have been caused by heart failure, although he was a victim of consumption.

B. J. Bethurnm and family returned from Frankfort Saturday night. Mr. Bethurnm went to London, Monday to meet with Legislature there Tuesday.

Mr. G. A. Klein, late Superintendent of the Rockcastle Stone Company at Langford, has moved his family back to Ohio. We are sorry to lose such excellent people.

Read in another column the ad of the First National Bank of London. Mr. Jackson, the cashier, is a perfect gentleman in every respect and those doing business with him will always find him a very pleasant man to deal with.

The Literary Society recently organized at the College is progressing nicely. Last Friday night was the first time we have had the pleasure of attending and to those who took a part in the exercises we desire to compliment them for the way they acquitted themselves.

Dr. E. J. Brown, a Rockcastle boy recognized far and near for his medical skill, who is Pres. of the S. E. Ky. Med. Association, also Pres. of the Lincoln county Medical Association, has purchased a third interest in the Joseph Price Infirmary at Stanford. Success to you Doctor.

There will be a meeting of the Democrats at the Court House Saturday Feb. 10, at 1 o'clock, for the purpose of drafting and adopting appropriate resolutions in memory of our great and fearless leader, the late Gov. Wm. E. Goebel. The ladies are cordially invited to be present.

Last week W. H. Cottingham, through his Attys. McClure & Brown, filed a deed of assignment in which he turned over his stock of merchandise to D. C. Poynter assignee, who has brought the stock here and will close them out. D. N. Williams and W. R. McClure were the appraisers to set aside his exemptions.

Robert Anglin, of Clear creek, while driving along the road one day last week, caught his body between the wagon and a tree which had fallen across the road, and in some way his body was thrown backward striking his neck against some part of the wagon and broke it. The dead body remained on the wagon and was carried home by the horses.

Through the courtesy of our efficient Circuit Clerk, Mr. J. F. Griffin, we are enabled to publish the number of cases set for trial at this term of Circuit Court. They are as follows:

Commonwealth case, 120; out of this number there are 24 felonies and 96 misdemeanors.

Common law actions, 25; Equity actions, 120; out of the common law and equity actions there are 51 appearances. The largest number for many years.

TOWN TALK.

The cork on the fishing line does a heap of dancing around, but its the hook underneath that does the business. Some merchants do a heap of talking, but its U. G. Baker who sell the goods.

A man is quiet when dead, a woman is dead when quiet. Our prices are alive and noisy. U. G. Baker.

Our prices take a tumble when those of other merchants come near them, U. G. Baker.

Its enough to make a cat laugh the way some merchants try to sink their prices with ours. To save their necks they can't do it. 18lb. granulated sugar $1.00; 20lb. finest brown sugar $1.00; cup greeville 5c plug; package coffee 10c; green coffee 10c; finest flour on earth $4.00 a barrel—50c a sack; lower grades much lower. U. G. Baker.

It remains for a citizen of our town, an officer of one of our churches, to say the meanest and most heartless thing concerning Gov. Goebel. Says he, in speaking of Gov. Goebel:

"I would like to be there to pull the trigger."

We have the positive proof of this statement and can furnish it if necessary. Yet this same man who "teaches temperance in all things" and prays "Let the words of my mouth and the meditations of my heart be acceptable in thy sight, O Lord my strength and redeemer." No wonder some churches do not prosper with such mock Christians in the pew, no wonder the church receives no more blessings because the prayers of such reach no higher than the ceiling.

LOGUE AND HIS SONG.

The following is a song which our townsman and drummer Logue Thompson can be heard singing almost continually here of late:

Give the drummer a kind word always,
He'll give you back the same,
For the doings of some "black sheep"
Don't give the whole tribe blame;
For down, clear down to Hades,
Some so-called "good men" slip,
While along the road to heaven
Goes the drummer with his grip.

The couple have taken rooms at the Mullins house, Livingston, so as to be near Mr. Lawrence's work.

berlain's Cough Remedy.

During the early part of October, 1896, I contracted a bad cold which settled on my lungs and was neglected until I feared that consumption had appeared in an incipient state. I was constantly coughing and trying to expel something which I could not. I became alarmed and after giving the local doctor a trial bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and the result was immediate improvement, and after I had used three bottles my lungs were restored to their healthy state.—B.
